Sir,

I have the honor to contact you to propose my services for a 5-month internship from the beginning of February 2023 as a front-end developer intern.

I am a second-year student at CentraleSupélec engineering school. I have specialized throughout my course through my choice of courses, personal and associative projects in computer science and web development. I took opportunities to learn about different front-end technologies through projects on various stacks. These opportunities motivated me to learn and explore the different types of projects that web development makes possible. My experience in the school's IT association (ViaRézo) has completed my profile to give me a solid culture on DevOps and network topics. More recently, I joined StartX for a 5-month internship during which I was able to discover the culture of entrepreneurship and innovation in the Silicon Valley.

I am hardworking and determined. I enjoy teamwork and challenges that require me to think of new and original solutions. I truly enjoy working in teams because it is the setting in which I can best learn from others and teach others. Crossing knowledge and perspectives is my favorite way to create. I also have a strong taste for passing on my knowledge.

With ViaRézo, I discovered the tools proposed by Datadog and I could use them daily. I was impressed by the completeness of these tools and wanted to discover more. Thanks to the discussions I had with Datadog's employees and interns, I got a glimpse of the company's culture and values which made me want to join your team and participate in your projects.

I sincerely hope that my application will get your attention. I am at your disposal for any interview.

Please accept, Sir, the expression of my respectful consideration.
